Rules of Engagement: Using Data and High Yield Strategies to Build Effective Instruction

As educators, we are always searching for new and exciting ways to add excitement and rigor to our lessons. Lead4ward is a company that prides itself on providing educators with engaging, research-driven professional development workshops that are applicable to all content areas and grade levels. During our workshop, you will develop practical processes, strategies, and tools that will both enhance your instruction and bring excitement to your students. The presenter, Shelby Walker, will provide engaging, interactive activities that will improve content delivery. Be prepared to move around! This is definitely NOT a “sit and get!” You will be up and out of your seat learning, interacting, and collaborating with educators from all over the city. Come and join us as we gain a deeper understanding of the TEKS, the STAAR, the data, and effective instructional strategies. It will be fast-paced and filled with energy, music, movement, and FUN! Limited spaces are available so register today!
